UFO Soars into Roaring Knob for the King of the Knob on September 6

The Roaring Knob Motorsports Complex will host their first-ever Super Late Model tour event with the next UFO Race Championship event presented by Comcast. The Ed & Scott Nicholson Memorial "King of the Knob" will pay $5,500 to win on September 6 at the 3/8 mile oval.

The UFO Super Late Models will compete in a full championship racing program including extended-lap heat races, consolations and the "Area 51"-lap feature event. The "King of the Knob" has continued to grow in both payoffs and car counts over the past seasons and is both the highest paying event at Roaring Knob, and the track's season finale.

Jason Covert of Lock Haven, PA is the two-time defending champion of the race. Other previous winners are: 1998 Dave Groves, 1999 Tom Myers, 2000 Lynn Geisler, 2001 Dave Groves, 2002 Mike Benedum, 2003 Bobby Hill, 2004 Gary Dalton, 2005 Neil Brown.

UFO Super Late Model car rules and race procedures will be in effect with single file restarts being utilized. All drivers competing at Roaring Knob are required to use RACEceiver 1-way radios. Rentals will be available for drivers who do not possess a RACEceiver. The starting grid will consist of 26 starters, including 1 UFO and 1 track provisional.

Rounding out the racing program will be the Roaring Knob Late Model, E-mod, Street Stock and Charger classes. Divisions will participate in features only, with the top 12 starting positions being determined by a draw of the top 12 present drivers in the point standings. A second draw would determine the rest of the starting order for drivers present but out of the top 12.
